

Simms Books Publishing Foundation, (SBPF) was established to provide literacy support for students K-12, teaching them the fundamentals of life skills, finance, achieving goals, building self-esteem, communication skills, interpersonal skills, business and writing their own story. This has a long-lasting benefit for both students, teachers, parents and the community as a whole. One of the most important factors in business relocation, sustainability and success is directly connected to the quality of education and the talent the school system produces. We know that a one size fits all approach does not work for all students so we have created a workbook and a plan of attack to level the playing field. #Writeyourstory® is a literary Initiative that takes the approach that we all have a story to tell, why not write your story and turn it into a business.

Our goal is to educate students on how to run their own book business; build confidence, address the real issues they are facing today, like mental illness, give them a voice and the tools to make better decisions when it comes to conflict resolution. A more confident, expressive, articulate, assertive, focused, aware and career driven student is our desired outcome. We are creating hope, building talent and giving them something tangible to work towards. All of the above subject matter, put to good use, improves the community, school system and state directly and positively, which all helps develop the infrastructure bringing in big business seeking qualified talent. Money contributed through the Foundation is earmarked for after-school programs, equipment, computers, building and classroom space, seminars with hands on training, book publishing fees, program work book and staff.

We are asking all to consider making a contribution of $1, $5, $10, $25, $50, etc. The contributions will help us fund this program and other activities. #Writeyourstory® needs your help in making sure the next generation of students are well equipped when entering the next level, college, work force and or creating their own businesses by, “writing their own story.”

“Education is the key that unlocks the doors to plenty of opportunities. First step, is to educate students to their strengths, followed with practical solutions to fill in the gap, and next aide them in creating their very first opportunity, becoming a business owner.” – James R Simms, CEO, SBPF

Contributions to Simms Books Publishing Foundation, can be made through the following platforms:

PayPal website -contact@simmsbookspublishing.com

Check/Money Order (Simms Books Publishing Foundation Attn: #Writeyourstory® 2045 Mt Zion Rd Morrow, GA 30260)
Ph. 678-886-5733

Cash App - $SimmsBooksFoundation

Cadence Bank Account# 1000240158

The Simms Books Publishing Foundation is a 501c3 organization. EIN# 83-0618391

sbpfoundation.com